WELCOME TO LISBOA

Lisboa is a city that brings together past and present, historical traditions, culture and modernity. It is a melting pot with global influences perched just above the Tagus River.

Studying in Lisboa means enjoying amazing weather, beautiful landscapes, low living costs in a safe and stimulating environment. Students will have the opportunity to contact with the Portuguese language and explore themes related to the larger Lusophone community with around 220 million native speakers. Besides having the unique chance to access regional, multi-market recruitment opportunities in a safe and cosmopolite city and in a University that offers a comprehensive support system aiming to maximize the international experience of our visiting partners.

STUDYING AT ISPA

Located in the Moorish district of Alfama with brightly painted houses and flower filled windows, ISPA started its activity in 1962. Since then ISPA has been a reference in the Portuguese higher education system.

Pioneer in research and education in Psychological and Behavioural Sciences, ISPA is internationally and nationally recognized by the excellence of its scientific, pedagogical and cultural project, the quality of its faculty, research and development activities and the relevance of the extension and outreach programs.

From the very beginning, our project was to built over an institutional development matrix with six main lines:

1. A highly qualified and prestigious faculty fully committed to the institution;
2. Plural scientific and pedagogical activities particularly focused in a multidisciplinary scientific and cultural approach;
3. Relevant scientific production;
4. A clear investment on internationalization through the establishment of strong partnerships with universities, research and intervention centres of excellence;
5. A diversified editorial activity;
6. Relevant, permanent and diversified social and community intervention.
